Healthy Forests

Healthy Communities

• Forests also help to mitigate the impacts of flooding

• More than 3000 communities get their drinking water from Natural Forests

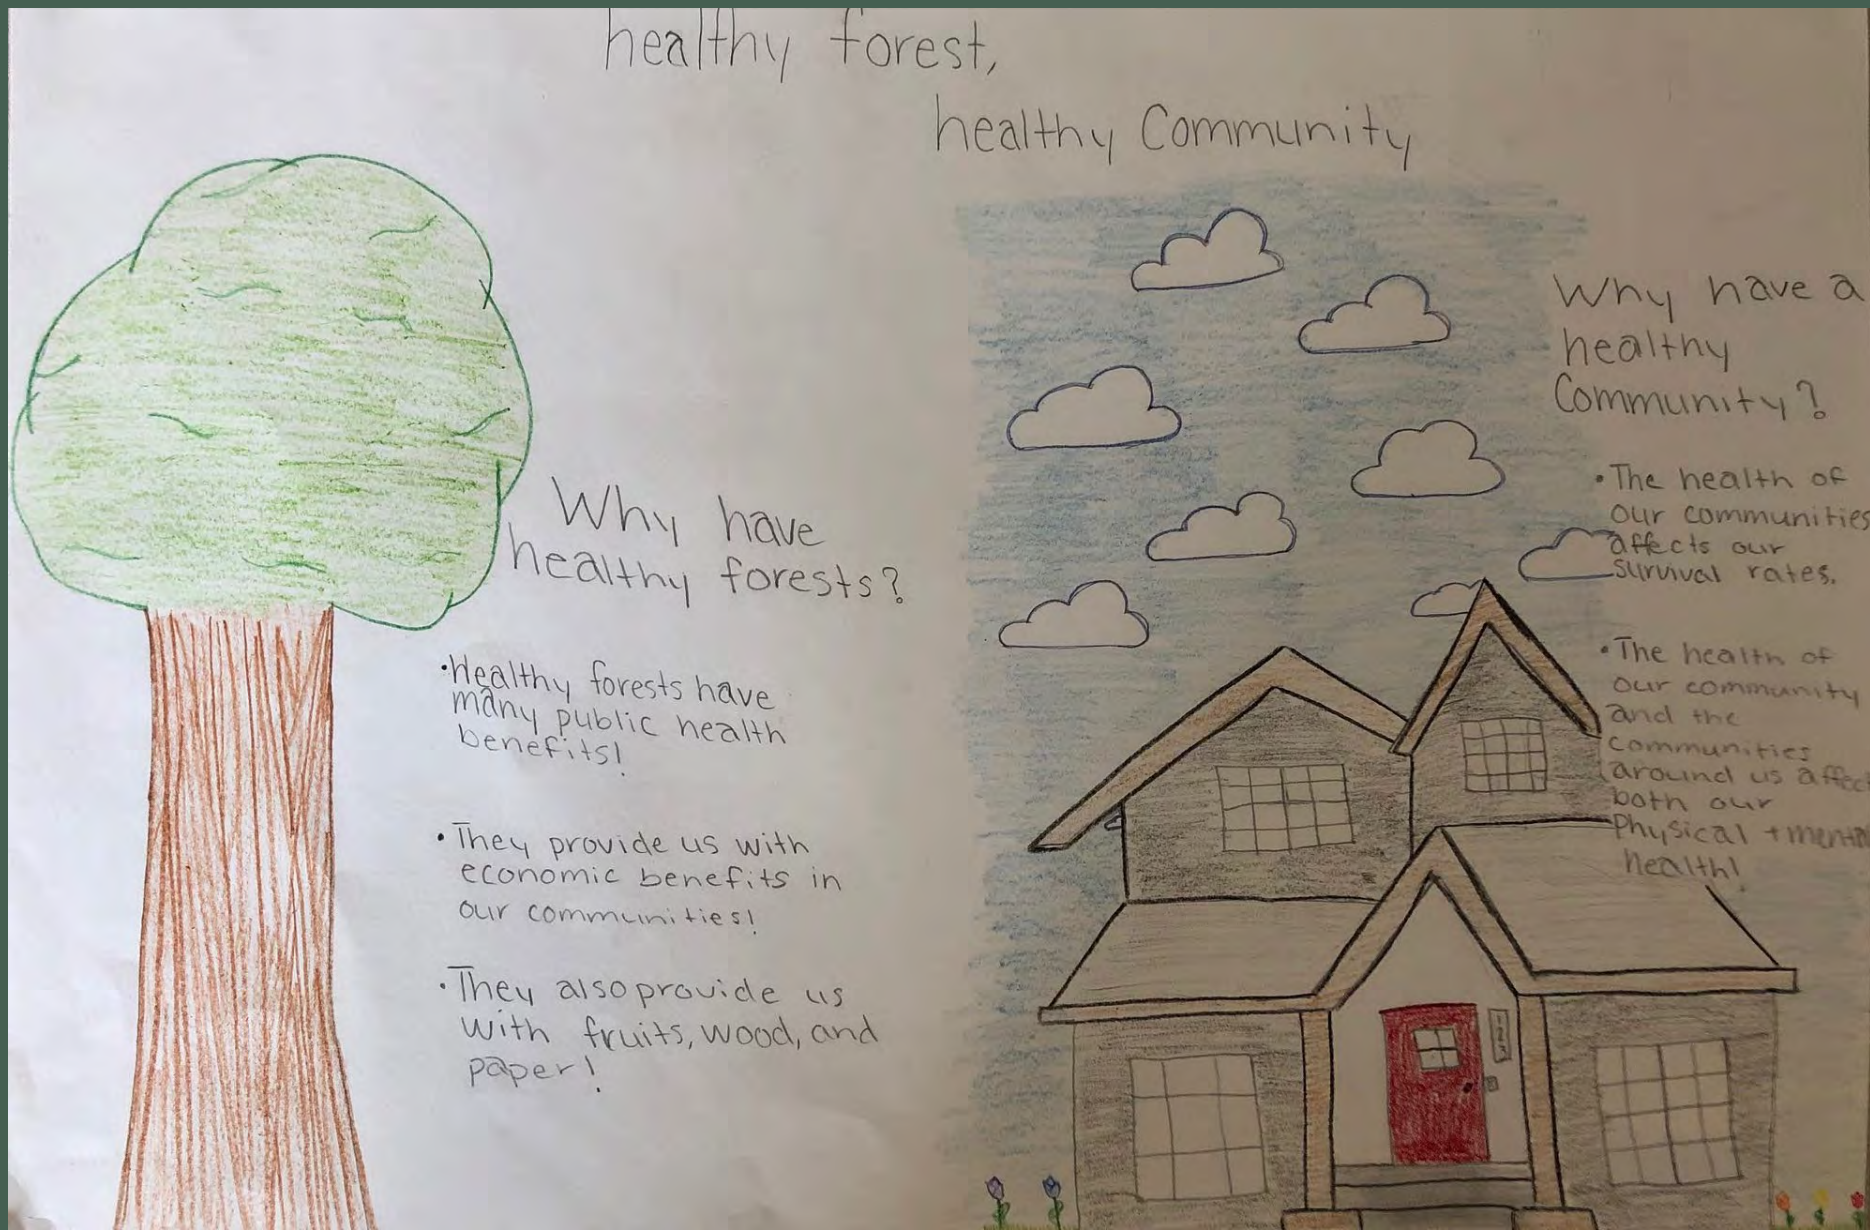

• Evidence shows that exposure to the forest can reduce human stress levels

• Helps us divert from attentional fatigue and improves our overall mood

• The root system of the trees hold the soil in place, helping sediment from washing down stream

• The forest is also known to strengthen the human immune system

• One of the best producers on earth for air
